

Being on Cloud9

As far as having the best success potential Cloud9 wins that trophy. Cloud9 has a clear direction for branding which starts with their name. For those that aren't familiar the definition of the phrase "cloud nine" is "a feeling of extreme happiness or euphoria, feeling like you're floating on air." Their brand colors and logo then support their name by incorporating shades of whites, blues and shapes resembling the curves of clouds. Currently if you look at their website one of their victories that they boast is their "unmatched viewership hours" which is one of the necessary components of a successful Esports organization.

They claim to be the best in all categories, from an extensive benefits package for players and staff to their various teams ranging from chess to League of Legends, it's hard to compete with an organization as structured as Cloud9. In addition, that have created a presence so successful that they have their own merch and are partnered with various other big named companies. In addition to that their funding is superior to some other organizations in the sense that they have the support of names like Twitch, Microsoft and even BMW. The investors see their potential and want to be a part of the success.

In all the ways that count Cloud9 knows exactly what they're doing and how to do it best. They have the viewership, the drive, the branding, a clear vision and the funding to back it up. They continue to keep themselves relevant in height of what is currently the peak of Esports and is one of the most well-known organizations out there. They've been building a great community, have the supports of the fans, partners and players along with a company culture of acceptance, creativity and flexibility. They continue to garner success in all facets of their company and I don't see an end in sight for them! Very exciting indeed!